DRUM CLOCKS

- Seen from long way away
- Create a focal and meeting point
- Ideal for including corporate image
- Maintenance-free with modern movements and controls

A projecting clock is another popular way of providing a focal point in a public area to get the kind of benefits of a pillar clock where there is no space at ground level. There can be few better ways to identify your building than with a projecting clock and you will often find that planning authorities view clocks more sympathetically than they might view more traditional ways of displaying a corporate image. A clock is always likely to become a meeting point, and in its own way become an advert for its building.

Hawkins PROJECTING CLOCKS

Hawkins projecting clocks are engineered to give an excellent finish and longevity. Brackets are always treated and painted to avoid corrosion, and dials and dial boxes are produced so as to look magnificent for years to come. Modern movements and controls give all the benefits available to all other Hawkins products, but in a style of clock that gets the maximum of impact in the most crowded of streets.

We offer a varied standard range of designs each of which can be customised to suit your requirements. We also have a large range of tooling as well as in-house fabrication facilities which mean we can create eye catching bespoke designs to meet your specific requirements or match your corporate image.
